Drouth in New York

NEW YORK, May 27.—Thermometer 91. The intense heat and long continued drouth are working great disaster to the people of the rural districts. Springs which were never before known to be dry are exhausted. Deadly Heat

A Big Failure.

NEW YORK, May 26.—The Sun says of the failure of Brown, Rosenthal & Co.: The announcement of the embarrassment from San Francisco caused much surprise here, the firm having high standing and claiming a surplus of over $150,000. The report being made B Gratz Brown was reported for president of the convention by the committee on organization.

Mr Parks nominated J. F. Williams, an anti Tilden man, making the issue on chairman. Williams declined the nomination and Brown was unanimously chosen. The districts then announced delegates to Cincinnati.

A series of resolutions favoring Tilden as the choice of the Missouri delegation was read and referred to the committee on resolutions. The following delegates at large were elected: Tom Hyde, St Louis; Geo Vest, Silas Woodson, St Joseph; John O'Day, Springfield. Adjourned.

Reported Massacre.

DENVER, May 27.—A letter from Cimarron, New Mexico, says in regard to the reported massacre of the Bradbury party: The party passed this place some time since and asked advice about going on the north fork of the Gunnison to prospect. They were advised not to go as it was very dangerous, as the White River Utes were camped from South Cedar to the mouth of the Un[illegible]. They paid no attention but went on. The Indians [illegible] them and Ouray and Chipeta [illegible] prevent a massacre. Another letter says that the location of the reported Bradbury massacre is at least 140 miles from the town of Gunnison and nearly if not quite as far from the mining camps of the Gunnison country, and it is further [illegible] it is not positively known that Bradbury was murdered, and that the Gunnison mining country is not on the reservation and is open to settlement.

Outrageous Work.

LEAVENWORTH, Ks, May 27.—Thomas C Thurston, who killed his business partner Mr [illegible] on the 1st of January last and was acquitted about a month ago, met D. R. Anthony, editor of the Times, on Delaware street this afternoon, and after passing him turned and fired two shots at him, neither of which took effect. One shot however struck John Douglass, a young man employed in the Times office, making a severe scalp wound, and the other struck Lucien Baker, a lawyer standing on the sidewalk about 60 feet away, in the left side about two inches below the nipple, and passed through his body, inflicting a wound first thought mortal. Physicians now think he may recover. Baker is a prominent attorney and defended Thurston [illegible] when he was tried for the murder. The affair created great excitement, and officers were obliged to secure Thurston to prevent the people from inflicting summary punishment upon him.

After the appointment of the usual committees, adjourned till 7 P. M. On reassembling the committee on resolutions made majority and minority reports, the former in favor of instructing the delegates for Seymour and Hendricks for president and vice president, and to vote as a unit for the two-thirds rule. The minority report, which was adopted, gives no instructions. Delegates to the Cincinnati convention are: First district, R B Moore, Ed Carroll, J B Chapman; 2d, John R Goodin, Thos M Carroll, M O Barrett; 3d, John Martin, Thos George, Geo Craggs. Gen. C M Blair, of Fort Scott, was elected delegate at large, and W. C. Simmons alternate. Adjourned at midnight.

The convention was the largest and most enthusiastic demonstration ever held in the state. The convention cannot be considered a victory for any one candidate, as there are strong friends for Seymour, Hendricks and Tilden in the delegation.

The Hanlan-Riley Boat Race.

About 30,000 people attended the boat race yesterday. Hanlan took the lead at the start and increased it as he pleased, winning by three sixteenths of a mile in 36 minutes 14 10 seconds. Riley's time 37 minutes 21 seconds. Hanlan took matters leisurely, stopping several times to dip a sponge in the river and moisten his face, but always keeping a strong lead and rowing well within himself. Riley pulled pluckily to the finish, but fell more and more behind.

In the race yesterday Riley lost a boat length at the first by the breaking of a foot strap. Hanlan's steering was faultless and Riley's nervous.

Plaintiff is a delegate in congress from Washington territory and bought a suit of clothes from defendant for $15. He claimed that the contract was that if the suit did not suit him the purchase money was to be returned. The case was heard on its merits. The defense claimed that the contract was not that the money should be returned, but that if the suit did not fit him it was to be exchanged or altered to suit him, and that he was ready to perform his part of the agreement. The justice held the case under advisement and yesterday gave judgment for the defendant for costs.

SOME KNOCKS AT KALLOCH

His Kansas Record Ventilated in the Police Court

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2[illegible].—At half past 1 o'clock to-night the case of M H DeYoung, charged with having published a libel concerning Mr Kalloch, was called in the police court. W. Shimmins, who was on the stand at the time the court adjourned, was recalled. The question previously propounded as to his knowledge of Isaac S. Kalloch while he resided in Kansas was repeated to him, when counsel for the mayor [illegible] further objection on the ground of the form of the question. He held that the question was comprehensive and under it the witness would be permitted to testify to matters entirely immaterial to the issue. The court overruled the objection, and the witness said that he frequently met Dr Kalloch in Ottawa in gatherings. In 1866 the doctor moved to Lawrence, and then witness met him more frequently. He was with him frequently at meetings and in political gatherings, and during two or three years saw a great deal of him and heard a great deal of him. In the latter part of 1868 witness was in business with the doctor. Witness took a warm interest in political affairs, and was well acquainted with all leading men of the state. He said that he knew the doctor as well as one man can know another in the course of general intercourse.

Mr Campbell—Do you know what his general reputation was among the people who knew him, for truth, honesty and integrity?

Witness—Yes.

Campbell—What was it?

Witness—Bad.

Campbell—From your knowledge of him and his reputation, did he have a reputation for corrupt practices?

Mr Highton objected to this question, and said that the defense had gone as far as the ruling of the court would permit.

Mr Campbell contended that the defense had to show that the complainant had the reputation of having been engaged in corrupt practices while in Kansas, and to show that he was none too good to concert or procure perjury for a motive much weaker than that of saving the life of his son. Mr Campbell continued at length for the point. He was followed by Mr Lloyd and Mr Murphy, who also contended for the same point.

Mr Highton replied at great length and claimed that the purpose of the question asked was to hurl scandal at the head of complainant.

Judge Rix said that he proposed to confine the defense to establishing that the complainant has a bad reputation for truth, honesty and integrity, and sustained the objection.

Mr Lloyd said that under the ruling of the court the defense could not ask the witness any other question, and turned him over to the prosecution.

Mr Highton dismissed the witness without asking him a question.

As the session was simply for the purpose of taking the testimony of Mr Shimmin, the case was adjourned until a week from Friday at 2 P. M., when a day will be set for its further hearing.

JUNIUS BRUTUS AND THE JUDGES AGAIN

Criticism of Rulers

PORTLAND, May 27, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

So many important omissions were made in printing my letter (published to-day) to Judges Kelly and Prim as almost to destroy its meaning and effect, and I ask as simple justice to myself that it be republished in your paper to-morrow with the corrections herewith handed you. My absence at court in Washington county may account for these important omissions. I respectfully call the attention of all democrats to the letter. Very respectfully,

SIDNEY DELL.

To Judges Kelly and Prim, Sirs: When you deny the right of free criticism of our rulers in the press, do you realize that you violate the noblest principles and traditions of the democratic party? Are you aware that it was upon this issue the democracy first went into power in America? Do you know that its championship placed Thomas Jefferson in the presidential chair? And have you never learned that the denial of this most valuable right of a free people sunk the old federal party into oblivion for twenty years, only to be revived under another name? Or are you ignorant of these proud facts of democratic history? Yea, even as ignorant, or willfully unmindful of them, as you are of our own state constitution, which has preserved as a palladium of liberty that which our democratic forefathers established as the great unwritten law of free America? Were you mere "ciphers" and blind instruments then (as now), when Judge Deady, L. F. Grover, Delazon Smith, S F Chadwick, Enoch Hoult, I. R. Moores, Geo H Williams, David Logan, Jesse Applegate, E D Shattuck, John Kelsay, Cyrus Olney and other bright intellects of Oregon were placing this noble heritage in our fundamental law?

Why, noble sirs, when the alien and sedition laws were passed in 1798 by a federalist congress for the purpose of repressing free criticism of official magnates, the democracy was at a very low ebb and contending against very great odds. All three departments of the federal government—the executive, legislative and judicial—were decidedly against them with all the power and influence of public patronage. The legislatures of all the states, except Virginia and Kentucky, were against them, and 180 of the newspapers then published in the United States were enlisted, by preference or patronage, on the federalist side, while only about twenty advocated the faith you pretend to hold dear. Citizens were arrested, tried and convicted by the courts before packed juries for their bold utterances in the press about their highest rulers, and sentenced to pay heavy fines and to languish in jail. But the people arose in their majesty under the leadership of the immortal Jefferson, and, turning their faces against the advocates of this despotic tyranny, put the democracy into power against all these odds. The right of free criticism in the press of the highest rulers thus became part of the great unwritten law of the American union, although not incorporated in the federal constitution. Mr Jefferson enthroned this invaluable right in the creed of our party by incorporating it in his inaugural address. He says in the conclusion of his summing up of the true principles of our government:

The diffusion of information, and the arraignment of all abuses at the bar of public reason, freedom of religion, freedom of the press, freedom of person under the protection of the habeas corpus, and trial by juries impartially selected—these principles form the bright constellation which has gone before us and guided our steps through an age of revolution and reformation. The wisdom of our sages and the blood of our heroes have been devoted to their attainment. They should be the creed of our political faith—the text of civil instruction—the touchstone by which to try the services of those we trust; and should we wander from them in moments of error or of alarm, let us hasten to retrace our steps and to regain the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety.

Upon what principle then do you claim to be democrats and ask democratic support, when you declare to the people of Oregon that if you are elected you will sit on me still in judicial punishment even to the destruction of my source of livelihood for [illegible] this right to which democracy owes its existence and through [illegible] years lease of life? Could our party survive your election on such an issue? Your election on that issue would destroy that democratic principle and create a supreme power in Oregon exempt from criticism. You have made this issue in [illegible] of alarm for the exposure of your judicial outrages; but had you not better retrace your steps, and like Curtius of old, offer yourselves a sacrifice to the party good, declaring that you are unworthy to respond to the touchstone by which we try the services of those we trust? [illegible]

Very respectfully, SIDNEY DELL.

MARION COUNTY POLITICS

The Campaign Opens at Jefferson—The County Candidates on the Stump—Their Promises and Pledges—Harmonious Debates the Order of the Day

JEFFERSON, May [illegible], 1880.

To the Editor of the Oregonian: The political campaign proper opened up in this county yesterday by the appearance here for the first time on the stump of the candidates for the various county offices, including the [illegible] for legislators, which [illegible], and the canvass opened up under the most favorable auspices, the debate throughout being characterized by a spirit of good will which we trust will be observed throughout the entire canvass. The candidates at the start entered into the matter with a deserving warmth of feeling, and joked with each other over the probable result of the clean up on the 7th of June next. Several of the candidates reached here by private conveyance, but the majority of them, accompanied by a representative of THE OREGONIAN, arrived on the morning train from Salem. The Odd Fellows Hall had been engaged for their use, and at 1 o'clock P. M., a large audience being present, [illegible] commenced, a dead earnest half hour and twenty minutes being granted the candidates of each political party for debate.

COL. N. [illegible]

Republican candidate for state senator, was the first speaker. Thirty minutes only being allotted him, he was of course compelled to curtail his remarks, and branch out at once in pledging himself to advocate the early erection, removal and maintenance of the insane asylum at Salem, the seat of government, thereby saving the state about $[illegible],000 annually; the reduction to a reasonable compensation of the fees of county clerks and sheriffs, and the reduction of the legal rate of interest to a rate not to exceed eight per cent per annum. He reviewed with rapidity the local issues, and prodded the democracy with sarcasm thick on every hand, comparing it to an elephant with head and trunk gone and nought left but the tail, which appendage, however, resembled that of an animal referred to by Colonel Bradshaw in the legislature a few years since, and proved the most obnoxious attachment. He then alluded to the reported frauds and peculations connected with the last Modoc war, which [illegible] unearthed by the recent democratic investigating committee, and their report having been laid upon the desks of every member of congress prevented the passage of the bill reimbursing the state for the expense incurred, even after the bill, which had been recommended by the secretary of war and passed the lower house, [illegible] defeat of which bill would necessitate the continuance of the three mill tax two or more years beyond the time it would otherwise have been necessary. This was the result of a Kilkenny fight in the democratic ranks, and his ambition, if elected, would be to pass a bill memorializing congress to refund such expense as it was but just and right it should do. He alluded to the management of the state penitentiary and gave the governor a rap over the knuckles for his unparalleled generosity in his distribution of pardons, alluding to the fact that during the past 18 months he had pardoned and commuted the sentences of 99 thieves and cutthroats, and remitted the sentence of some 48 others. The institution had heretofore been run in the senatorial interest of the governor, all appearances indicated that it was this term being run with the view of gratifying the senatorial aspirations of a party by the name of East. The speaker's remarks throughout were listened to with marked attention, and he was frequently interrupted by enthusiastic applause.

DR. J. W. WEATHERFORD

Next announced himself as the democratic candidate for state senator, and acknowledged his inability to speak, which fact was soon apparent. He fully endorsed the pledges of the gentleman who had preceded him and favored reduction of interest in order to encourage home industries, and in other reforms he would work to bring about the same glorious results. He represented no party or clique, but would work for the whole people, and was with his audience not particularly as a politician but as a friend, and would do his level best to obey their wishes. Thinking this a good stopping place he walked off the stage.

HON. JOHN MINTO

Was the next speaker, and introduced himself as republican candidate for representative, with no apologies to make or excuses to offer. He had served them before and his actions were on record. He had already tried on several occasions to bring about a much needed reform in the management of the insane asylum, by which heretofore Hawthorne's money bags and champaign suppers have won the day. He would however keep at it and hoped the day was not far distant when this great leakage of our state finances would be partially stopped at least. He placed himself side by side with his colleagues in the introduction and support of other measures, and would in the future as in the past endeavor to do his duty without fear or favor. When questioned as to his temperance principles by some one in the audience, he announced himself as a temperate man, but not a fanatic, and while willing to pledge himself to the support of any reasonable bill regulating the sale of intoxicating drinks, he would not ostracise a man because he occasionally indulged in a social glass. His reply, it is needless to say, brought down the house.

GEN. JOHN F. MILLER

Candidate for the legislature on the democratic ticket, was the next speaker. He has a way of rubbing his hands and saying "Come now, boys, let's fix this matter up with satisfaction to all," but mind you, when it is all fixed up it isn't Mr Miller's fault if "John F" isn't well provided for. He rejoiced that the millenium had at last arrived, when he could work cheek by jowl with his republican friends, and when all was so harmonious. He too favored the removal of the insane asylum and advocated employing convict labor in its immediate construction. He touched lightly, as well he might, on the Modoc war question, but strenuously advocated memorializing congress to reimburse the state. He neither approved nor disapproved the report of the recent investigating committee, claiming it contained much that was wise as well as foolish, and was well satisfied in leaving the matters in controversy for settlement by the courts. He favored reduction of clerks and sheriffs fees—the former in this county he would pay only $1500, and fully endorsed the measures advocated by his predecessors so far as they concerned the best interests of the state.

MR. ROBINSON,

Candidate for the legislature on the greenback ticket, then stepped to the front armed with an old cloth carpet sack filled with messages, documents, patent office reports, etc., and he too rejoiced to see such harmony between the hitherto conflicting elements, and congratulated the audience on the fact that all that separated the two factions now was simply the loaves and fishes. He agreed with them also. He however had not fully made up his mind which one of the boys he was. He had been nominated by the greenbackers but he repudiated certain planks in their platform, and now stood before them as a sort of a green democratic republican, and he didn't care a continental whether they voted for him or no. He then opened his carpet bag and turning his attention to national affairs commenced throwing figures at his audience, and for the next half hour literally deluged his hearers with billions, millions and thousands until their minds were worse deranged than ever was the veriest lunatic over the 15 14 13 puzzle. He tangled them up and then tied the tangles into hard knots, sailors knots, and heaven knows what not, until at its close they were all only too willing to concede every proposition stated, and heave a sigh of genuine relief when at last he stuffed his papers back into his sack and closing it with a grateful snap stepped from the rostrum.

TILMON FORD,

Republican nominee for representative, was the next speaker. He too favored moving the asylum, reduction of rates of interest, etc., etc. He also advocated needed reforms in the punishment of criminals in this state, favored more bread and water and not quite so much roast beef and preserves. He called attention to some of the abuses practiced by the last state administration, and favored more stringent laws governing incumbents of those offices, called attention to the depleted condition of the common school fund, congratulated his hearers on the harmony of purpose between him and his opponents, and imagined that about all that separated them at last was but the doctrine of state supremacy. Mr Ford is a graduate of the Willamette university, an attorney of acknowledged ability and a gentleman highly respected by all who know him. He perhaps is not the handsomest man on the stump, but when it comes to good sense he is hard to beat. He will make friends wherever he goes.

T. L. DAVIDSON

Democratic nominee for representative, then mounted the rostrum. He dealt more particularly with county matters, and [illegible] [illegible] the auditor? [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. [illegible] [illegible]. He realizes only too well that he will [illegible] to return to his farm in June next and [illegible] entire attention to his Merino bucks.

MR. GRAVES

Another greenback candidate [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. He was [illegible] for them and was allowed his own way in all things save the division of time with the other candidates.

GEORGE W. BELT

Stepped lightly here. George is one of the boys and a hail fellow well met with all who know him. George is ambitious, and what ambitious will is to become a martyr to the glorious cause of democracy. He would like to be elected a representative from this county, but after a lively [illegible] [illegible] feeling, [illegible] the altar of his country, [illegible] and was prepared for a screed. George is a [illegible] youth and so handsome. He is [illegible] by any means, but has [illegible] a solemn vow to become as old as Methuselah if they—his constituents—will only give him time enough. George is handsome and he knows it, as do also his lady friends. George inserted on his good looks, run through the stump yesterday a [illegible] got up a laugh [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] batteries of eloquence and fired his shot right and left. He spared neither friend nor foe, and ridiculed Tilmon Ford and Uncle John Minto with merciless [illegible]. The former he arraigned on his political record, and the latter on his celebrated dog law, which won him fame, that Uncle John in 1878 [illegible] during the [illegible] session to pass an act taxing dogs. It [illegible] along until near the last of the session, before it was discovered that no provision was made for its collection, so that [illegible] from the owner of the dog and [illegible] the average taxable had not at that time been educated up to the standard of a thorough understanding of our revenue law, the bill failed to pass. He protested against the law providing for the appointment of election supervisors, denied the assumption of state sovereignty, believe however in certain state rights, harped on the danger of centralization of power, agreed with his democratic and republican friends on the necessity of the removal of the asylum, reduction of interest, reduction of fees in certain cases, and [illegible] all in all Mr Belt made one of the most interesting speeches of the occasion, and did remarkably well considering it was his maiden effort.

MART L. CHAMBERLIN

Republican nominee for county clerk, was also present, and although he did not favor us with any remarks, we all know where "Mart" stands. He is a republican of the first water, uncompromising, and unflinching. He is an old resident of Marion county and raised and brought up in our midst. His name is a synonym of honesty and integrity, and none can doubt his peculiar qualifications for the office to which he has been nominated. His friends who know his intrinsic worth are legion, and new ones are daily flocking to his support. His popularity is well deserved, and by his earnest application to business pursuits and unswerving fidelity to family and friends he has won the fullest confidence and esteem of the public. He has already been called to a number of positions of trust, and has discharged his duties in a perfectly satisfactory manner. He will probably lead the ticket in this county.

B. C. RAMSBY

The republican nominee for sheriff, was also on hand and made friends with everyone. He is an elderly gentleman of pleasing address and one every way capable to discharge the duties of the office. He is a strong republican and represented this county in the legislature of 1878 with credit to himself and his constituents. He is the very soul of honor, and during his residence among us as a private citizen has proven himself honest, temperate and industrious, and a man every way deserving of the fullest confidence and esteem of his neighbors and the suffrage of every republican voter in Marion county. He will be elected by a rousing majority, and will we feel confident prove a competent, efficient and accommodating officer.

CONCLUSION.

This closed the debate—if such you might call it—and the event was certainly a pleasant one throughout. Jefferson precinct is as solid as a stone wall, and will materially assist in swelling the majority for every candidate on the republican ticket. As a business place the little burg is assuming no little importance, and is one of the easiest little towns along the line of the O. & C. R. R. Politically speaking, Marion county is decidedly O. K. The utmost harmony prevails in the republican ranks, with a single exception perhaps, and it is only a question of majority in each and every case. We will not lose a candidate here, and for the state ticket propose to give from 500 to 600 majority.

THE GRANGER LETTER.

DIXIE, Polk Co., May 24, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

My attention has been called to a letter purporting to have been written at this place and signed "Granger," published in THE OREGONIAN of the 22d ins. I am informed that the authorship of the letter is attributed to myself. As you are aware that I am innocent of the act you will greatly oblige me by saying so in THE OREGONIAN or by the publication of this note.

J. W. NESMITH.

If any one has the impression that Mr Nesmith wrote the letter referred to in the above note, they are very wide of the mark. He did not write it, nor did he ever see it, except in THE OREGONIAN. As it was only a statement of a matter of record, the name of the party who wrote it is really a matter of indifference.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 28, 1880.

THE DEMOCRATIC LAMBS.

The democratic convention yesterday agreed to submit a ticket to the voters of this county, the names on which are, in some instances, well known. In fact it was arranged before the convention met as to who should be given the prominent places. On the day the republican convention met democratic hope was at a low ebb. Two or three republicans, however, who were not satisfied with the action of the convention of their own party, expressed a soreness over the result, and perhaps made some threats of bolting, or something of the kind, and straightway a few sanguine democrats proclaimed that a huge disaffection was breaking the republican party in two. A rush was made, and men who before were unwilling to accept a democratic nomination, were deluded into the belief that they could be elected. Ex-Sheriff Jeffery was one of these. He had often said he would not run, under any circumstances. But he was coaxed into the belief that there would be a serious break in the republican ranks, and that he would have a chance to be elected, and he unwisely consented to go upon the ticket as a candidate for state senator. Should he make a canvass of the county he will have the opportunity to explain the matters charged in the report of the investigating committee of the last legislature in regard to fees overpaid him while sheriff of this county, and which the men he now supports for Judges decided did not belong to him. And after the election, if he feels kindly toward the conscience fund he can send the money up to the state treasury by Messrs. Waters and Simon, who will be going to Salem to attend the state senate.

Mr. J. S. Keller, who is Mr. Jeffrey's colleague for the senate, is a member of the common council, a very respectable man, but does not claim the gifts which go to make a good legislator. He is one of the leading butchers and packers of Portland, and succeeds much better in that business than he does in politics.

For representatives, the names of those nominated are Messrs. Albert Smith, Wm. Gatton, Gustav Wilson, F. V. Holman, F. R. Strong, B. F. Jenness and O. E. Sitton. They are no better men nor more capable than those on the Republican ticket, but as they have no show to be elected, a discussion of their individual or collective merits as candidates is unnecessary.

The nominees for county commissioners were R. L. Quimby and T. M. Richardson, but the latter is reported to have declined in positive terms. Mr. Quimby, in point of qualifications, has no advantage of either of the republican candidates, Messrs. Long and Slavin, who are both prosperous farmers, will be as judicious and economical in the management of the county business as in their own.

"For the paying offices, put up the strongest men," was the motto of the convention yesterday. But it is doubtful if the action of the convention was consistent with it. Ben. Norden run the democratic primaries and of course got the nomination for sheriff, which was fortunate for the aspirants for other positions, as had he failed for sheriff, he would have crowded into some other place, it having become a sort of necessity for him to have office. B. G. Whitehouse, Esq., was nominated for clerk, but he will not be required to vacate the comfortable seat he occupies in the Gas and Water Co.'s office. The people will allow him to remain, as he is, a very good private citizen.

For treasurer, Capt. Cahalin was put on the ticket, to be even more badly defeated than was Mr. Shower's opponent two years ago.

For assessor, B. Z. Holmes was nominated but for what reason we cannot tell. He has had no experience in such duties as he would be called upon to perform, if he should be elected, which is not even among the most remote probabilities. If he was nominated with the expectation that his great wealth would help materially to swell the campaign funds the managers will probably find themselves mistaken, as he is not the man to throw his money away in a hopeless cause.

Mr. G. W. Burrage is the man designated by the republicans to survey the field after election day, which he will find strewn with political corpses of democratic candidates, among which will be that of Mr. D. W. Taylor, the young man nominated by the convention yesterday.

For school superintendent, Rev. John Rosenberg, a minister of the Episcopal church, a man for whom we have the highest respect, but whose ideas and theories on educational matters are not so consistent with those entertained by the people of this city and county as are those adhered to and carried out by his competitor, Mr. Macrum, who has acceptably filled the office for two years passed.

John Ewry, standing candidate for coroner, received the nomination again, but his defeat will not be regretted, as his partner, Mr. Garnold, will be elected.

The ticket is far from being satisfactory to the party, and with earnest, honest work, the republicans will poll a larger majority than usual, it being conceded that in many respects the democrats failed in bringing out their strongest men.

A gentleman now canvassing Marion county in the interest of the republican ticket, asserts on authority received direct from headquarters, that the current expenses of the state for the two years ending September 1, 1880, will be at least $25,000 less than the amount appropriated by the last legislature for these specific purposes. Thus it will be seen that instead of adding to the debt of the state as has heretofore too often been the case, the present administration have, by economical management and a correct construction of the law regulating the audit of accounts reduced the expenses of the state at a ratio exceeding in the aggregate $1000 per month. These figures speak for themselves and are highly creditable to our present state officers, a majority of whom are republicans.

The soul stirring drum is doomed. There is a proposition to do away with it in the French army. It is said that a drummer is of no use as a combatant, the instrument is too cumbrous. Another objection is that it is scarcely heard in damp weather. There are about three thousand drummers in the French army in time of peace and double that number in time of war. If the drum should be replaced by the trumpets the musician could take part in active fighting if there was any necessity for it. The Italian army has given up the use of drums. At its latest review the result of this change was excellent, and an unanimous vote approving of it was given by the officers.

In Louisville, Ky., a new Sunday law has recently been made, under which all persons doing work or services, for which they are to receive pay, are to be punished. At midnight on Saturdays the saloons are closed and the hacks sent to their stables. All persons employed on newspapers after that hour are reported for indictment, and the climax has been reached by sending the police to the churches on Sunday and procuring the names of the sextons and organists, and reporting them for indictment. As the preachers receive pay for their labors on Sunday, the next step in the absurd proceeding will be to arrest them.

A private dispatch to THE OREGONIAN announces the fact that the house committee in congress has unanimously agreed to recommend an extension of time for six years to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. This recommendation, if agreed in by congress will insure the connection of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts by this route within and before the time named in the grant of extension.

A week ago tickets were printed in this city to be sent to outside precincts to be used on election day in the interest of Judge Bellinger. The tickets contained the names of all the republican nominees except that of Raleigh Stott, for judge, for which the name of Bellinger is substituted. The republican county committee should look out for these bogus tickets, and see that genuine straight republican tickets are furnished in every precinct.

J. M. Kelty, present sheriff of Yamhill county, is a candidate for re-election. His capable and honest discharge of the duties of the office are in such strong contrast to the dishonorable record made by his democratic predecessor, H. C. Dale, that the nomination amounts in his case to an election.

If these two conferences with their rapidly increasing membership penetrating all parts of Oregon and Washington Territory cannot sustain a local church paper then they do not deserve one

THE EXPECTED FRESHET

Prospects of a Flood, Similar to if not Greater than that of 1876 Not Discouraging. Warm Weather all that is Necessary

From the present outlook there seems every reason to predict very high water this season There can be no doubt but that during the past winter great quantities of snow have fallen in the mountains of Eastern Oregon Washington and Idaho which finds an outlet to the ocean through the Snake and Columbia rivers and their many and far reaching tributaries And yet only a small proportion comparatively speaking of the snow has yet [illegible] to the general influence of the warm atmosphere.

Persons who have recently come down from various sections of the country lying east of the Cascades [illegible] than the upper which produced a flood this season Snow still lies deep on the various ranges of mountains and in some of the valleys It is there and the only necessary contingency is the temperature Ten or fifteen days of real warm weather will loosen the snow and send it down like an avalanche. Warm weather may reasonably be expected at this time of the year and high water is not necessary to follow in the wake

During the past week the temperature has been somewhat elevated at various points up the Columbia ranging from 65° to 81° The Columbia, Snake and Willamette have been rising steadily but not rapidly up to Wednesday Dispatches from up the river Wednesday evening state that the river at the several points mentioned had fallen The river here has added a few inches and at the present writing stands 18 feet above the extreme low water mark

SUNDRY DAILY READINGS

From the signal office here we have obtained the following figures

These figures are the sum total of the daily readings of the water gauge added for the number of days mentioned and also the aggregate volume of water in the Willamet

From March 16th to March 31st 1879 the total sum of the daily readings aggregate 182 feet and 5 tenths. For corresponding dates in 1880 46 feet and 3 tenths

During the month of April the readings showed 405 feet and 8 tenths For the same month in 1880 19 feet and 8 tenths

From May 1st to May 25th 1879 aggregate readings 3 8 feet During same month present year 34 feet and tenths

Sum total of readings from March 16th to May 25th are as follows for 1879 [illegible] feet and 5 tenths for 1880 595 feet and 1 tenth

The volume of water from March 16th to May 25th was 376 feet greater in 1879 than during the current year

From the above figures it will be seen that the aggregate sum of daily readings last year far exceeds that of the present season In other words, a much greater quantity of water passed down the river from March 16th to May 25th in 1879 than has for the same time this year all of which indicates that the worst is yet in store

Nothing it is conceded can avert a flood similar to that of 1876 but a continued cool weather so we must watch and—wait

THURSDAY EVENING, May 27.

The local wheat market has been entirely lifeless for the past ten days, not a single transaction having been recorded. The last sale reported was early last week, to a Salem mill, of 1000 tons of Walla Walla wheat on private terms. Every San Francisco steamer carries away as much wheat as she can take in, to be reshipped for England. This of course, entails a heavy expense on shippers, but it must be borne, as there are still no vessels in port, and none to arrive soon.

The wool market has been characterized during the week by extreme apathy, lack of confidence and lower prices. The Oregon City woolen mills are the only buyers in the city. Advices from San Francisco and all eastern markets indicate excessive dullness, and no demand. The revival of wool manufacturing interests in the east last fall which stimulated prices beyond the real value of the staple, was, it seems, only temporary. The mills ran day and night, and soon the market was fully stocked, if not glutted. The demand in the east for woolen goods is not so great that an advance in prices can be looked for with any degree of confidence. The following from the New York Journal of Commerce, reviewing the woolen goods market, however, gives a hopeful outlook.

"There has not been the sharp demand of past seasons, as the large business of the past four months anticipated such wants, still a few buyers have been present and some very fair orders have been placed. Considering the large business of the past five months, prices are exceedingly steady. Buyers appreciate the fact that their supplies in hand and to arrive are at less cost than they can be replaced, and are calling for deliveries with much steadiness. In consequence of the cold weather of April delaying the consumptive demand for spring clothing, there was some disposition to draw back, but any misgivings as to the rest it having been allayed by the more seasonable weather of the week under review, the market closes with a better feeling throughout and a new demand at hand. The cloth house trade have called for a moderate delivery on orders, which indicates that the small trade begin to realize the necessity of securing a moderate quota of supplies in advance. As a rule there is no disposition to force goods, manufacturers through their agents being more disposed to await the demand of distributors than to relax their claims for present values. The wholesale clothing trade are very busy in their manufacturing departments, and with the first of next month their requirements of certain styles and qualities to complete assortments may be expected to the extent of a fair business. In the meanwhile any request is for given quantities to complete lines, beyond which the market has been inactive except as outlined above."

Many dealers here are of the opinion that wool will not bring this year much more than the ruling prices of 1878 and 1879. Choice Eastern Oregon wool can be sold at 23c; ordinary to good, 18@22c, valley, 18@25c.

Bacon is in good demand at slight advances over last week's quotations.

Eggs are firm at 20c.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The following special report of the real estate market is furnished THE OREGONIAN by Clark & Upton, real estate brokers and architects:

The market has been more active this past week than at any time during the preceding month. The transactions in residence and business properties appear to have been generally scattered through the city and suburbs, showing no specially favored neighborhood. The chief feature is the purchase of various parcels of land in the southern suburbs, made by the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. for railroad uses. The active measures now being taken by the railroad companies is having an effect upon the real estate market, which is seen in the increased number and amount of the transactions recorded. The building trade is active, and the leading architects are busily engaged on projected buildings, some of which will probably surpass in effectiveness anything hitherto erected in Portland. The recorded purchases and sales of the past week number 35, viz., city properties, 19; East Portland, 8, country and suburban, 8. Eleven of these transactions, several of them being valuable properties, show a united consideration of $20 only. The total amount of the week's business as named in the deeds is $36,810 45, against $18,810 the week before.

MARK LANE REPORT.

Bad Weather for English Crops—A Dull Week's Market—Prices, Sales, Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LONDON, May 26.—The Mark Lane Express says: In consequence of cold winds the favorable indications formed in March and April have been considerably modified. Drought is generally causing well founded anxiety as the land is more than surface dried. If the state of growing crops in several southern counties is any criterion, there will be no wheat ears this month. Money was hardly ever so scarce in this country as now, and this has made itself unmistakeably felt in Mark Lane of late, where credit of smaller country millers has been much shaken. Business has been somewhat interrupted by holidays, and the grain trade is rather weaker. English wheat was marketed very sparingly. Last week's full quotations were only obtained with difficulty, but growers were mostly firm.

Imports of foreign to London have been very moderate and trade remained uncertain as a consequence. On some sign of improvement of the weather, mills hesitate to increase their stocks. A pressure to sell American wheat ex ship caused the recent advance of 6 pence to be lost. A reduction has been necessary to effect sales of Russian, but the demand lately has been very restricted, while wheat, such as fine Australian, slightly favored buyers at the close of the week.

Maize was in good demand at 24s 6d@25s, but offerings were small. Oats closed firm. Arrivals at ports of call have been very limited. Wheat, under strong continent demand, continued to improve until 53s 3d f r continent was paid for red winter, but during the past few days the market has been somewhat easier, closing without any material change for the week. Maize met with steady inquiry and prices are good in consequence. Light arrivals advanced it to 25s 6d@26s. Wheat for shipment, was offered on rather easier terms.

Sales of English wheat last week, 23,677 qrs at 44s 8d per quarter, against 54,672 qrs at [illegible] per qr for the corresponding week last year. Imports into the United Kingdom for the week ending 15th, 1,6[illegible],077 cwt wheat and 169,917 cwt flour.

Catarrhal

DR. SCA[illegible]

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts.

1. That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local, and finally constitutional.

2. That, being constitutional, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3. That impurities in the nostrils, are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa, and Consumption.

5. That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations and Insufflated Snuffs, cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6. That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

W. D. WOODS, 487 Broadway, N. Y., Cured of Chronic Catarrh.

F. J. HASLETT, 639 Broadway, N.Y., 11 yrs Catarrh.

G. L. BULSH, 443 Broadway, N.Y., 10 yrs Catarrh.

S. LENEDICT, Jr., Jeweler, 697 Broadway, N. Y., lady friend, cured of Chronic Hay Fever.

MRS EMMA C. HOWES, 80 W. Washington Square, N. Y., cured of 25 years Chronic Catarrh.

REV GEO. A. REES, 169 Jay St., Brooklyn, "It restored me to my ministerial labors."

REV. CHAS. J. JONES, New Brighton, S. I. "Worth ten times the cost."

REV. ALEX. FREES, Cairo, N. Y., "It has worked wonders in six cases in my parish."

L. T. NEWMAN, 305 Fulton St., Brooklyn, cured of 4 years Chronic Catarrh.

MRS. J. SWARTZ, JR., 200 Warren St., Jersey City, cured of 18 years Chronic Catarrh.

&c. &c. &c. &c. &c.

A real cure for this terrible malady, is the most important discovery for the relief of human suffering, since vaccination. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure is sold by all Druggists, or delivered by D. B. DEWEY & Co., 46 Dey St., N. Y. for $1.50 a package. To Clubs, six packages for $7.50. Dr. Wei De Meyer's Treatise with full explanations and overwhelming proofs, is Post-paid and sent free to anybody.
